3. It is a bad year for getting approvals on titles of research papers to be prepared by Agency students at Senior Service Schools. We have received negative responses on research topics selected by four students: [redacted]
IAS, National War College; [redacted], IAS, Armed Forces
Staff College; [redacted], CRS, Armed Forces Staff College; and [redacted], OCI, Air War College. The latest disapproving word comes from OCI, referring to [redacted] topic, "Insurgency in the Sudan," as "too broad to be handled satisfactorily at an unclassified level."

6. [redacted] DDS Area Records Officer, has made arrangements with Printing Services Division to take on the job of microfilming OTR's official course folders. Up to now this microfilming has been done by temporary personnel from the Clerical Pool. This has been unsatisfactory because these personnel have been neither trained nor supervised. PSD can begin immediately, so we have asked [redacted] 25X1A9a RMO/OTR, to retrieve five boxes of records from the Records Center. Records covering the period 1946 - 59 have already been microfilmed; these five boxes will cover the years 1960 - 63.

7. Since the publication of the Headquarters Employee Bulletin on 16 September which offered an academic counseling service, business has been brisk for [redacted]. She has counselled 198 people; 83 by telephone, 20 by personal interviews, and 95 in group sessions. One group of 30 from the Office of Communications met at Headquarters in the evening so that spouses could attend. TSD asked for a briefing during working hours on 23 September, and many of those present commented that it was unfortunate their wives could not attend. Two sessions were held for NPIC [redacted] one on Saturday morning and one on Monday evening. The feedback from these group sessions expresses gratitude for the service because no other single source for complete information is available to them, and also because the wives are included. Obviously a need exists in the Agency for this service. Having the information centralized saves the time of our employees, helps them in their search for academic means of self improvement, concentrates guidance for parents with college-bound dependents, and assists employees in developing job-related courses of study.

Ruth is still handling her editorial/publications duties in addition to the burgeoning counselling service. Her information specialist responsibilities have been assumed by [redacted] who is presently engaged in reorganizing and expanding the Information Section.
